Cullen and Dykman Welcomes Cynthia P. Camacho as Partner, Expanding its Construction Litigation Department

May 16, 2023

New York, NY - Cullen and Dykman LLP, one of New York State's oldest law firms serving clients across the Northeast, is excited to welcome Cynthia P. Camacho as a new Partner in its Construction Litigation Department. Cynthia's arrival strengthens the firm's commitment to providing exceptional legal counsel to its clients.

With over 15 years of experience defending property owners, contractors and not-for-profit organizations, Cynthia Camacho joins Cullen and Dykman as an experienced litigator. Her practice areas include construction litigation, general liability, premises, labor law, and products liability. Additionally, Cynthia has a proven track record of advising clients on complex legal matters related to negligent supervision and lack of security claims.

“We are thrilled to have Cynthia join our team at Cullen and Dykman,” said Christopher H. Palmer, Managing Partner at Cullen and Dykman. “Her extensive experience in construction litigation and general liability, combined with her skill in advising clients on complex legal matters, makes her a valuable addition.”

Cynthia Camacho added, “I am delighted to be joining one of the premier construction litigation groups in NY and I look forward to working with such a talented group of people.”

Cynthia earned her J.D. from Albany Law School of Union University and her B.S. from Le Moyne College. She is admitted in New York.

About Cullen and Dykman's Construction Litigation Department

The attorneys in our Construction Litigation department have a long history of representing clients in all phases of construction projects, from contract negotiations and financing transactions to management claims, arbitration, and litigation. In fact, the Brooklyn Bridge owes its famous profile to one of the firm's founding partners who chaired the group that selected John Roebling's world-renowned design. The Construction Litigation department at Cullen and Dykman is a "full-service" construction group under any interpretation of the phrase "full-service". We handle all aspects of large-scale construction projects with ease, from front-end contract drafting and planning to litigation involving construction delay and defect claims, personal injury and professional liability matters, breach of contract, and bankruptcies and reorganizations. We staff all construction and coverage disputes with a streamlined team based on case need with oversight from our experienced team of partners, each of whom has well over 30 years of experience in high-stakes construction planning and litigation. We are efficient problem solvers first and foremost. No matter what the issue may be, there is a focused, mindful solution waiting for each of our clients.
