Webinar Description

Though the COVID-19 emergency has battered many industries, it was not the beginning of what currently besieges colleges and universities. Issues have been brewing beneath the surface of these proud institutions for a long time. The headwinds of shrinking enrollment, increased competition and downward pressures on tuition are causing many institutions in higher education to address their economic viability. Increasing costs and decreasing revenues is a recipe for disaster in any business, and colleges and universities are not immune to such business challenges. These challenges are further exacerbated by regulatory obligations and academic culture, especially when it involves restructuring smaller institutions. The panel will take us on a journey through distressed higher education. Come join us for a lively discussion and learn first-hand from experts in the field on how to restructure colleges and universities.
