

New Law Requires New York State Chartered Financial Institutions to Cash Certain Checks

January 11, 2023

New York State Governor Kathy Hochul has signed into law New York State Senate Bill S7535A, which adds New York Banking Law Section 9-Z requiring a New York State chartered financial institution to cash certain checks drawn on the institution if certain conditions are met. The law becomes effective March 30, 2023 and applies to New York State chartered banks, trust companies, savings banks, savings and loan associations, and credit unions.

Section 9-Z provides that covered financial institutions may not refuse to cash a cashier's check, a payroll check, or a certified check in the amount of five hundred ($500.00) dollars or less drawn on an account at such institution as long as there are sufficient available funds in the account on which the check is drawn. Such institutions may, as a condition to cashing such check, require the payee to present both a valid government-issued photo identification and matching proof of address such as a bank statement, utility bill or printed pay stub. If the payee provides a form of identification required under Section 9-Z, and a signature or mark, and the financial institution refuses to cash the check in the absence of suspected fraudulent activity, such institution shall be guilty of a violation of Section 9-Z and subject to penalties under the Banking Law.
