

Partner Brian Selchick to Present in Upcoming New York Employment Law CLE Presentation

August 15, 2025

On August 21st, Partner Brian Selchick will take part in an online CLE seminar titled, "New York Employment Law 2025" hosted by the National Business Institute (NBI). He will be covering two sections of the program titled, "Discrimination, Harassment, and Retaliation Claims" and "Non-Solicitation, Non-Compete, and Confidentiality Agreements." Mr. Selchick will speak on managing, handling, and representing employers when allegations of discrimination, harassment or retaliation arise. NBI offers 8 credit options.

From serving as the chief negotiator in union contract negotiations to conducting workplace investigations to advising on day-to-day employment matters, Brian's practice encapsulates all aspects of labor and employment law. He frequently serves as outside labor counsel to companies and governmental entities, including serving as Outside Counsel to the New York State Assembly's Committee on Ethics and Guidance. Brian routinely handles high stake and sensitive employment matters for employers.
