Timothy J. Langan, Jr. specializes in the representation of real estate developers, property owners, and commercial contractors in disputes arising from construction projects as an associate of the firm's Construction Litigation group. These disputes include property damage, professional liability and personal injury claims, as well as actions arising from commercial contracts and insurance policies.

Prior to Cullen & Dykman, Timothy's practice included insurance defense for Medical Malpractice claims, representing various hospitals and healthcare providers in the greater New York metropolitan area.
